FLOWER SEEDS

SEASON 1915-1916

SIDE from the disturbed conditions of many sources of supply, the necessity for the establishment of a reliable wholesale Flower Seed Business in America will readily be admitted, and we wish to convey to you, upon receipt of this, our wholesale flower seed catalogue, some idea of the circumstances which have made this issue possible.

It is known that we have carried on business up to the present on a restricted contract basis, sending out to the trade at seasonable times our contract price lists of choice flower seeds. We may state, positively, that we have no connection as agents with any European firms.

The greatly increased business which we received during the past season, combined with the existing conditions, have proved sufficient encouragement for us to invest much time and money on the expansion of our business.

The seed farms at Estlin, Sask., Canada, the extent of which being 1500 acres (700 now under cultivation), enables us to grow the seed of Hardy Annual Flowers in quantity, and in addition we are growing the Perennials and more expensive items in the vicinity of New York, also in various parts of the United States.

Although the climates of the United States and Canada are ideal for the cultivation of the majority of our seeds, it should be understood that we do not claim to be the growers of all we offer. The thinking business man will no doubt realize, as we do, the important part a truly reliable merchant must undertake in such cases.

With regard to the quality of the seed offered by us, we rely upon the wisdom of the retail merchant, who will acknowledge the small chances which we would have of remaining in business should we send out seed of inferior quality. Believing we possess the necessary factors for the proper upbuilding of a real wholesale flower seed house in America, namely, experience as Growers, Botanists, Explorers, Merchants and sound Judges of the best business methods and with the continuance of the support extended to us in the past by many retail seed merchants in America, Canada and Great Britain, we look forward with firm confidence to the future.

We take this opportunity of asking that some allowance be made should we become short of any variety listed by us, as the present uncertain conditions make the provision of proper quantities rather difficult.

Our aim is to gain your confidence and it will be our greater aim to hold it.

Yours respectfully,

C. C. HOY CO.

Specialty — ASTER — Specialty

(ANNUAL)

The quality of our Asters is unsurpassed and will satisfy the most critical trade. The American climate is especially suitable for the production of the highest quality of Aster seed. We have, at different times, visited the seed-growing countries of Europe, but have yet to see this most popular flower grown to such perfection. Much attention is given to the roguing, not alone of imperfect blooms and varying colors, but also of any slight departures from the true shades. A trial will be most convincing.

SWEET PEAS

As the Giant Spencer type of Sweet Pea has now almost entirely superceded the old grandiflora varieties, we are devoting our attention to the first named, with the intention of offering the best that can be produced. High cultivation and thorough roguing of even the slightest departure from the true shade of color, combined with the greatest care in handling the seed after harvest, will, we feel confident, result in proper satisfaction to ourselves and our customers.

American-grown Sweet Pea seed is now distributed to all parts of the world. Seed merchants acknowledge America as the first source of supply.

The fact may be noted that our prices are not the lowest. In this respect we claim quality.
